

KENNETH COBONPUE

A world of whimsy, beauty, and creativity filled with curiosity and discovery.

A world where everything I do is an extension of my childhood.
A playground of dreams from castles to creatures in distant lands interpreted as a symphony of colors, forms, textures, and patterns.
All these come together in a natural fruition of design.

Everything around me inspires.

Like a collection of short stories, every furniture I design narrates a tale which I live to tell through the detail of every weave, carve, knot, woodcut, stitch, fine fold, cast, and mold.

Buds blooming to a bouquet. A fisherman's net tossed in the sea from a reed boat. Tall blades of grass swaying in the wind.

Flights of fancy in a hot air balloon or on board spaceships.

Thumbelina on a giant leaf. A butterfly fluttering its wings.
An aerialist in mid-flight. Hundreds of little people working in unity.

A stork carrying a newborn baby home.

A peacock's flamboyant train. A dragon's tail.

Welcome to my imagination.

A boundless world where I wander off to find my sense for wonder.

ACACIA

The majestic Baobab tree—its massive barrel trunk that grows a fusion of branches is the inspiration that shaped our Acacia collection.

Made from natural rattan poles, fastened to create the sculptural and fluid contours, each vine is carefully laid by hand, like an assemblage to simulate the beauty of this majestic tree.

BABAR

A magnificent giant who roams the earth with so much gentility. In Asian culture, elephants are an enduring symbol of strength and longevity. Our Babar collection captures the characteristics of this largest land animal—Sturdy. Delicate.

Part cabinet, part study, the impressive frame of Babar is wrapped with a unique weaving pattern inspired by the texture of the elephant's skin. This beautiful desk made of rattan, cork, wood, and steel, opens to multiple shelves and compartments. To add a bit of play, Babar's tail, made of coconut fibers, is a soft, natural, dust broom.

Create a natural habitat in your home for this four-legged friend and find inspiration in your own work corner with Babar.

BALOU

The bare necessities of life—fresh air flowing freely, crystal clear blue seas and skies, lush greenery, and the warmth of our Balou easy armchair.

From a favorite storybook that I have read as a child, 'Baloo,' the plump, gentle, and easy-going bear from The Jungle Book reminds me of soft and cozy hugs—my tell-tale inspiration for this collection.

Sink into summer sunsets. Do nothing. Lay back cozily and indulge yourself in a comforting embrace of our Balou.

The elegant lattice pattern, crossing over every handwoven cord, allows light to filter through and air to flow freely.

CAIRO

Several strips of rattan carefully crossed to overlap at right angles with another set of strips; bending with just the right tension. A beautiful romantic movement of weaves with the precision of its craftsmanship is a pageantry of the simple and circuitous texture of the Cairo.

Imagine a large sheet of papyrus. This grasslike aquatic plant is the seed of my inspiration for the Cairo collection. It started from a trip to Egypt and my fascination of the Papyrus water-plant abundant in the marsh delta of the Nile River. The elegance of Cairo's weave in alternating rows resembles a delicate fabric draped over a metal frame.

Structurally angular in shape; yet the gaps and spaces of its weaves allow light and air to flow through in harmony.

GOBI

On a trip to Arizona, I was fascinated by the peculiar shape of the cactus plant amidst the red desert sand. I wanted to capture this beautifully barren landscape in a single design.

This gave inspiration to the Gobi collection. Layers of steel are hammered by hand into the form of a cactus. Rich, earthly, and random patterns are embossed on its surface. The colors of the desert are reflected in its warm brown and copper tones; and the use of glass mimics the mirage of water in the horizon.

Scroll back in the early 19th century—the Victorian era that transformed the art of bookbinding. Leaf through an old book, page after page. Natural, rustic, handmade, and antiquated.

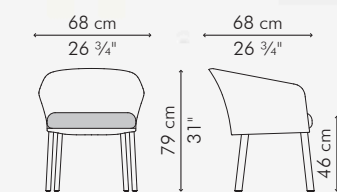

Ragged and feather-edged, folded over and over. Beautifully bound and showing its aged ridges. A glimpse of this old world comes to life as we refashion the art of manuscript binding through layers of fabric to design the Parchment collection. Inspired by bound manuscripts, the charm of this armchair is in every crease and fold of inter-layered acrylic fabric, bound by a fabric-wrapped rope, lined with urethane foam, and mounted on a maple and steel base.

APOLLO

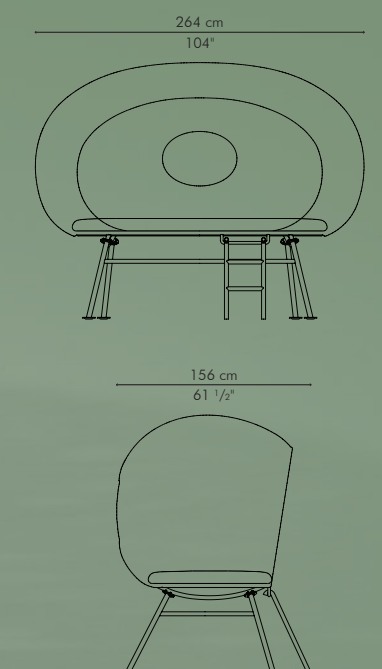

As a kid, I was an “imagineer” at play. Building makeshift forts, treehouses, and spaceships as I hop on board the Apollo; blasting off to galaxies and wandering into interstellar space.

This is my outer space—an Apollo daybed set outdoors, amidst the lush greenery. Created for the childlike fascination that fancily remains as an imagination. An open-weaved, capsule-shaped bed made of polyethylene strips are wrap around a steel frame allowing air to flow through for a comfortable and leisurely rest.

BOUQUET

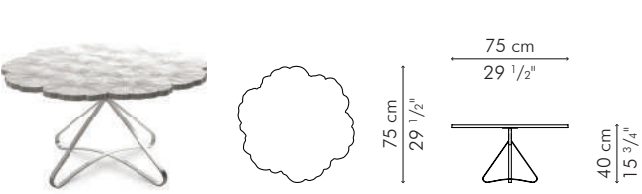

The art of pressing fresh flowers to create an artistic foliage resembles the fluid lines in our Bouquet—a cluster of Cosmos, etched on a fiber-reinforced-polymer surface. Delicately and carefully carved onto a 2D plane surface, then molded to create a low-relief impression of a simple floral pattern.

Our dainty Bouquet coffee table, mounted on a stainless steel base, is a stunning interpretation of an Oshibana, a beautiful bouquet of flowers made to last forever.

DRAGNET

Every twist and knot in our Dragnet narrates the story of the fisherman heading out to sea for his daily catch.

It weaves a tale inspired by a circular casting net—spreading out in mid-air; and gracefully touching that layer of the ocean where the wind and waves interact. That single motion of throwing the fishing net—opening up to a beautiful web of latticework, is the rhythmic inspiration of our Dragnet collection. An eye-catching mesh made from twisted fabric and wire is meticulously wrapped around a cocoon-shaped steel frame.
